

BASIMA TEWFIK

NATIONALITY / COUNTRY OF ORIGIN:

USA

BIO:

Assistant professor of work and organization studies, MIT Sloan School of Management; former general management consultant in the USA and Europe; Poets & Quants '40 Under 40' Best Business School Professor.

IDEAS:

Basima's main stream of research examines the psychology of the social self at work, including rethinking what we know about impostor syndrome – for which there can be upsides – and how you can decline taking on more requests at work when you have too much on your plate.

CONTENT:

'The Impostor Phenomenon Revisited: Examining the Relationship between Workplace Impostor Thoughts and Interpersonal Effectiveness at Work' (Academy of Management Journal), plus research spotlighted in podcasts, books, and media outlets including Armchair Expert, A Slight Change of Plans, BBC, Business Insider, Daily Mail, Pivot, Think Again, and Adam Grant's WorkLife series.

WEBSITE:

[mitsloan.mit.edu/faculty/directory/
basima-tewfik](https://mitsloan.mit.edu/faculty/directory/basima-tewfik)

SOCIAL MEDIA: